one of the cleverest green goods men in the country, was arrested yesterday by .Detective Sergeant McConville of Headquarters at his boarding house, 247 West 189th street. McConville said he had been on Gray's trail for several weeks. District Attorney Jerome received some time ago a letter from a Mrs. Irene Rother of Marion, Ohio, who described herself is a widow whose husband had left her $500 insurance money. She said she answered a get-rich-quick advertisement answered a get-rich-quick advertisement that appeared in a publication for women and got a circular signed "The Imitation Jewelry Company, Box 2, Station J. New York city." The company offered to sell 1,000 pieces of imitation jewelry for $40.

"This jewelry is such a perfect imitation," the circular read, "that it is impossible to detect it from the original."

Mrs. Rother said she wrote to the jewelry company, telling them she wanted to go into business and had $500 to invest.
"Come on quick," was the answer," and

Mrs. Rother said she left the $500 with the man and went back to Marion. There she waited two weeks for the Jewelry. It didn't arrive. One day she got a letter. It was signed "Melbourne," and told her to curb her impatience a while longer.

"My son has been arrested," said the writer, "and the police are after me. As soon as I get my son out on bail, I'm going to Marion, Ohio. It's getting too hot here for me and, besides, I rather think I like the simplicity of you Ohioans. I'd like to meet some more of you. I will bring the jewelry with me."

Lawyer Sanders Shanks of Brooklyn has served notice on Police Commissioner McAdoo that he will apply to the Supreme Court on Feb. 6 on behalf of Ahi Peace and the Protective Traffic Association of the borough of Brooklyn, of which Mr. Peace is the president, for an injunction restraining the police from enforcing the traffic regulations in the vicinity of Borough

Mr. Shanks has prepared affidavits, which have been signed by his client and several of the business men affected. Mr. Peace, who is a real estate agent, for years has driven about town in a two wheeled runabout. He says that he is compelled to do business in the prohibited zone and that he is frequently forced to waste haif an hour to get to his destination by roundabout travel-because of the indiscriminate manner in which the orders of Commissioner McAdoo are carried out. On Dec 17, Mr. Peace says, he was arrested and taken to the Adams street court. He was convicted by a "learned Magiwhere he was charged with wilfully obstructing public traffic. He was convicted and sentence suspended.

Dr. Joseph F. Todd of 550 Carlton avenue is one of the signers of the affidavits. He says that on Jan. 10 he was stopped at Fulton street, near Adams street, and was privented from driving through Jorale-mon street. He protested and was ar-rested charged with the "crime of refusing to pursue certain lines of traffic as directed."
